$25,000 in Premiums.

Twenty-five thousand dollars in premiums and prizes will be distributed at the Big Bluegrass Fair, to be held at Lexington the week of September 17 to 22. When it was first definitely decided to hold a fair, the committee on classification arranged a program whereby about fifteen thousand dollars would be distributed among the exhibitors.

This was approximately the amount offered by the Kentucky State Fair last year, and it was believed that it would be ample to provide for the contingencies. Various departments have been added, however and the amounts for others increased until now an actual monetary value of $25,000 attaches to the premium list. Aside from the State Fair of Texas, at Dallas, which extends over a period of two weeks, this is much the largest amount ever offered by a fair in the South. It has been so distributed as to insure excellent exhibits in every department. No one department has been featured to the detriment of any other and the result will be a splendidly balanced program and an excellent fair from every standpoint. The enterprise of the Bluegrass Fair Association in making such liberal offerings deserves highest commendation.

Mt. Sterling will hold two local option elections Sept. 19.

This is unusual but two petitions were filed and two elections will be held to answer each one.
